We are so happy you’ve found the Crown Heights Community Mediation Center Reentry Resource Directory!

About Us:
The Crown Heights Community Mediation Center staff and volunteers work to make our neighborhood safer and healthier for all. The Center works out of its storefront office on Kingston Avenue as well as throughout the neighborhood. At our office we offer resources, referrals, and youth programs, and in the community, we run youth development and anti-violence programs. The Crown Heights Community Mediation Center is a project of the Center for Court Innovation. Below are descriptions of a few of our programs.

Save Our Streets Crown Heights (S.O.S. Crown Heights)
S.O.S. Crown Heights works to stop shootings and killings within the Crown Heights neighborhood. The program focuses on several fronts to disrupt violence: S.O.S. Violence Interrupters mediate conflicts on the street; Outreach Workers with the people most likely to be involved in shooting incidents to change their thinking and behavior; and Hospital Responders meet with victims of gun violence and their family at the emergency department at Kings County Hospital to prevent retaliation and interrupt the cycle of violence. S.O.S. Crown Heights works closely with neighborhood leaders and businesses to promote a public, community-supported campaign against gun violence. S.O.S. has an ongoing and critical collaboration with local clergy through S.O.S. CAN, in which clergy members assist in mobilizing participation in vigils within 72 hours of an incident, provide counseling, and promote a message of non-violence.

Make It Happen!
Make It Happen! is a program designed to assist young men, ages 16-24, in overcoming challenges related to the exposure to violence, poverty, and inadequate role models. Participants are given coaching on their goals and vision for the future. All participants are connected to resources to assist in job readiness and placement, education, housing, and other relevant issues.

Youth Organizing to Save Our Streets (YO S.O.S.)
YO S.O.S. is a youth development program and the youth mobilization arm of S.O.S. Crown Heights. It aims to empower young people to become community leaders and organizers around issues of violence. The program is available to Brooklyn teens, ages 14-17, who are interested in becoming peer educators. Teens from different schools get to know each other, share ideas, and ultimately come up with their own strategies for ending gun violence. In twice weekly experiential workshops, teens focus on self-empowerment, community outreach and project implementation.

Neighbor Services
With assistance from our volunteers, we are able to make referrals for mental health and substance abuse treatment, benefit eligibility and applications, emergency food and housing options, affordable housing, job training programs, and adult education classes. We also host organizations providing free tax assistance, free health care screenings, and free legal services. We register families for Fresh Air Fund programming and also disseminate general information about the community through our blog, storefront window, and email communications.

Please join us in our efforts to make Crown Heights an even better and stronger neighborhood! You can join our group of volunteers, communicate with us through Facebook, Twitter, or phone, or come by our office during our open hours. We always have something helpful and new going on at the Mediation Center.

Many thanks to our funders and supporters: the Office of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention, Health and Hospital Corporation and the New York City Department of Health and Mental Health, New York City Council Member Al Vann, New York Community Trust, New York City Council, the Ostgrodd Foundation, the Cottonwood Foundation and many private donors.

HOW TO GET YOUR CREDIT REPORT:
■ It is a good idea to get your credit report once a year to make sure there are no errors on it. It is also helpful if you are applying to rent an apartment or for a loan of any sort to know what the lenders or landlords will find.

The website to get free reports from all three major bureaus is annualcreditreport.com. The score costs $7.95, but the report alone is free and you do not need to give any credit card information. Or you can contact the three major credit bureaus individually.

GETTING HIRED  SOME HELPFUL INFORMATION

Many employers are reluctant to hire ex-offenders, particularly out of fear of crime against their business or other employees. Information and support is sometimes available to employers willing to take a risk on an ex-offender. There are some incentives the government has put in place:

The Federal Bonding Program:
- The federal bonding program provides fidelity bonding insurance coverage to individuals with criminal histories and other high-risk job applicants who are qualified, but fail to get jobs because regular commercial bonding is denied due to their backgrounds.

Tax Credits:
- The Work Opportunity Tax Credit (WOTC) is a federal tax credit to reduce the federal tax liability of private for profit employers to be used as an incentive for employers to hire individuals from eight different targeted groups: TANF recipients, veterans, ex-felons, high risk youth, summer youth, Food Stamp recipients, SSI recipients, and vocational rehabilitation referrals.

GETTING YOUR CERTIFICATE OF DISPOSITION
- Many jobs require that formerly incarcerated people provide a Certificate of Disposition stating the status of their previous criminal involvement. The certificate will tell you what crime(s) you were charged with, what crime(s) you were convicted of, what date you were convicted, and the sentence you served. If you have been arrested more than once, you must get a separate certificate for each incident.
- See previous page to receive Certificate of Disposition and RAP Sheet.

DISCUSSING YOUR CRIMINAL RECORD WITH POTENTIAL EMPLOYERS
- Be aware that the law prohibits felons from holding some types of jobs. However, there are many jobs available for offenders. Remember it is important to tell the truth.
- For many just out of prison and applying for job, the most difficult part is facing the question on the job application, “Have you ever been convicted of a felony?” Let’s say the employer needs someone with your energy and skills. He or she says, “I see that you checked ‘yes’ on the felony question. Can you please tell me about that?” What will you say?

Three Choices for Discussing Your Record:
- Tell the truth – always the best choice
- Lie about it – and get disqualified or fired (can happen after you are hired)
- Avoid the subject – refusing to discuss it will “kill” the interview

Steps to Discussing your Conviction Record

Step 1: Own it. Take responsibility for your actions. Show them you own up to your behavior. Statements should begin with “I.” Placing blame on someone or something else (it wasn’t my fault or I didn’t know) is the worst thin you can do. Suggested openers could be:
- In the past I made some bad choices/judgments/decisions.

Step 2: State the positive changes you have made since the conviction:
- Completed GED.
- Completed Cognitive Skills Programming or counseling for thinking and decision making.
- Paid restitution

Step 3: Tell Them what you have learned or realized:
- I’m not proud of what I’ve done; I’m sorry it ever happened.
- I wish I had realized sooner just how immature and irresponsible I was being.
- I lost sight of what was really important; my priorities were really messed up.

Step 4: Talk about the new goals you have and how that part of your life is over.
- I now have new goals in life. I’m very focused on establishing a successful career. I’m moving forward and am willing to work hard to make it happen. I can’t un-do the past, but I did learn from it and will not repeat the same mistake.

If Asked – Were you incarcerated?
- I did spend some time at an adult correctional facility for some bad choices I made.
- My time there helped me to focus and set new goals.
RESPONSES TO COMMUNITY VIOLENCE

Watching beatings, witnessing shootings, seeing bullet holes and police tape: these are examples of violence that nobody should be exposed to, but sadly, for so many of us, these are frequent experiences and can seem “normal.” These are examples of community violence, violence from people around us, and while it impacts many neighborhoods, it doesn’t have to dominate your life.

People who have experienced violent trauma from community violence may have trouble trusting others, feel anxiety when walking through their neighborhood or places that remind them of it, have trouble sleeping, experience frequent stomach aches or headaches, find themselves thinking about the trauma often or re-experiencing it, feel angry or sad, or struggle to get along with others.

Many people who experience violence go into “survival mode,” feeling worried and ready to fight or run at all times. Trauma can affect someone’s mood, view of the world, and sense of control. If you find yourself feeling this way, know that you are not alone and that it can get better. No one deserves to go through life in survival mode and there are resources to help you process trauma and move forward.

Healing from trauma includes finding healthy ways to talk about your experience and engaging in positive activities. Think about someone you can confide in such as a family member, friend, counselor, or minister. Specially trained therapists can also provide expertise and confidentiality. Many people cope through writing, drawing or other arts activities, as well as through physical activities like joining a sports team or exercising regularly. Some find ways to mentor others, volunteer for local organizations, and share what they’ve learned to contribute to a safer community for all.

Relaxation techniques can be helpful if you feel yourself becoming agitated or on the verge of re-experiencing a traumatic event. You can practice “controlled breathing” by placing your hand on your belly and watching it go out like a balloon expanding as you inhale and then go back in like a balloon deflating when you exhale. Practice slow, deep breaths. Another helpful technique is “progressive muscle relaxation.” Practice tensing and then relaxing a specific part of your body, like your hand multiple times, and then continue through different parts of your body.

HELPFUL HINT

YOU ARE NOT ALONE. TOGETHER WE CAN make it happen FOR MEN AGES 16-24

You can help keep yourself safer in your neighborhood by creating a safety plan. Think about which streets are safer to avoid and who you can travel with that will help you be safe. Make sure that the people you choose to spend time with and travel with are not going to put you in any danger. Plan ahead where you would go in an emergency and who you would call. Have their number memorized.

There are many people who’ve experienced similar situations and can support and help you. Call the Mediation Center to learn more.
